IMPOSING CEREMONIES ATTEND THE INAUGURATION OF GOVERNOR TENER

Inaugural Parade Immediately Follows Taking of Official Oath at Noon Today.

ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENTS

Philadelphia Man is Named Attorney General---Strong Speech in Acceptance of Highest Honor in State.

With the conclusion of the inaugural ceremonies at Harrisburg which began at noon today, John K. Tener of Charleroi was formally inducted into the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. Immediately after the inaugural ceremoniesand paradeGovernor Tener sent to the Senate for conformation the following cabinet appointments:

Secretary of the Commonwealth, Robert McAfee of Allegheny county.

Adjutant General, Thomas J. Stewart of Montgomery.

Health Commissioner, Samuel G. Dixon of Montgomery.

Executive Controller, Samuel C. Todd of Charleroi.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, Nathan C. Shaefer of Lancaster.

Private Secretary, Walter H. Gaither of Allegheny.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled at a similar event overwhelmed the State capital today. Marching clubs from Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other large cities and towns were in evidence, in addition to the military and thousand of civilians who flocked to the city.

Promptly at 11:30 Governor-elect Tener was escorted to the Capitol by by the Governor's Troop. The inaugural ceremonies took place at noon in front of the capitol on a platform erected for the purpose. Bishop J. H Darlington of the Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg delivered the invocation, and the certificate of election was read by H. M. Keppart, chief clerk of the Senate. The oath was administered by D. Newlin Fell, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the proclamation was read by Lieutenant Governor Robert J. Murphy.

Governor Tener then read his inaugural address, which is given in full in this issue on the third page. After the address Governor Tener reviewed the parade, which was a brilliant pageant of militia, political marching clubs, school organizations and civic bodies. At 8 o'clock this evening Governor Tener will give a reception to the public in the House caucus room of the Capitol. This with the inaugural ball, formally closes the ceremonies.

MAID WITH TENERS TEN YEARS GETS JOB

When Governor J. K. Tener and Mrs. Tener went to Harrisburg, they did not take chances on picking up a good maid to rule over the destinies of the executive kitchen, but took along the one they had had with them for the past ten years. This is Mrs. Emma Sims, who left yesterday for the State capitol. Her part in the ruling of the Commonwealth will be as important in a way as that of the highest paid State official.

MAY BEGIN BUILDING WORK SOON

Money for Charleroi Structure to be Forthcoming

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

The secretary of the United States Treasury sent to Congress yesterday his statement of appropriations required for purchase of sites and construction of Federal buildings in the next fiscal year. The sum of $20,000 of the amount appropriated some time ago for the Charleroi building, is asked, to pay for lots purchased at the corner of Fallowfield avenue and Seventh street, and to begin construction of the building. This would indicate that real work on the building is to begin within a few months. For site and commencement at Monongahela, $18,000 is asked.

SUBPOENAS ARE AWARDED IN TWO DIVORCE CASES

A subpoena in divorce was granted yesterday by the court to M. J. Tylavsky against his wife Katherine, both of Charleroi. The husband charges that the wife has made his life unbearable and on January 7 he was forced to leave her. The couple were married in 1892.

In the suit of Arthur Pochet vs. Martha Jane Pochet a subpoena in divorce was awarded. The libellant resides at Charleroi. Cruel and barbarous treatment is alleged. This treatment was due to insanity, according to statement.

MANY GO TO HARRISBURG TO ATTEND INAUGURATION

Western Pennsylvania Well Represented at State Capitol by Persons Anxious to See Gov. Tener Take Oath

STUARTS TURN OVER EXECUTIVE MANSION

Governor and Mrs. J. K. Tener have a number of their relatives and close friends as their guests at the executive mansion at Harrisburg during the inauguration who are well known and closely associated with Charleroi. The party includes Mr. and Mrs. George E. Tener, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johns, Miss Roberta Johns and Mrs. James Smith, Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Columbus, O., formerly of Charleroi; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Day, Charleroi, and Mr. and Mrs Henry F. Walton and Mrs. E. Walton Hill, Philadelphia. Mr. Day of Charleroi is a brother and Mrs. Miller of Columbus, O., is a sister of Mrs. Tener.

Another party at the Commonwealth Hotel includes Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Tener Cleveland, O., and Mr. and Mrs Edward H. Tener and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Tener, Pittsburg. The two brothers of the Governor, who could not be present at the inauguration are Walter J., of Pittsburg, and Robert W. Tener of Virginia.

Governor-elect and Mrs. Tener arrived in Harrisburg yesterday afternoon at 12:52 o clock from Pittsburg. They were met at the statin by A. B. Miller, private secretary to Gov. Edwin S. Stuart, and Senator John E. Fox, chairman of the inaugural committee, and were driven to the executive mansion in Gov. Stuart's carriage. At the mansion they were welcomed by Miss Cora Stuart and the Governor After luncheon Miss Stuart went to her home in Philadelphia and Gov. Stuart retired from the mansion, turning it over to his successor.

The town is filled with neighbors of the Teners in Charleroi and along the Monongahela valley. Last evening most of them called at the executive mansion to tell the big Governor how proud they are of him.

At the public reception in the State Capitol tonight those who will be on the receiving line will be Governor and Mrs. Tener, Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Reynolds, Secretary of Internal Affairs Henry Houck, State Treasurer and Mrs. C. F. Wright, President Pro Tem. of the Senate and Mrs William E. Crow; Speaker and Mrs John E. Cox, Secretary and Mrs. Walter H. Gaither, Chairman of Legislative Inaugural Committee and Mrs. John E Fox.

STORMY SESSION IS IN PRESPECT

Representative William Feeney of Charleroi was not present at the opening of the Legislative session at Harrisburg, being detained as a teller in counting the ballots cast in the national election of the United Mine Workers. Mr. Feeney is still at Columbus, Ohio, where the national convention assembled Tuesday. It is not expected that the official count of the ballots will be completed before the end of the week so that the result is not likely to be announced before Monday.

Both President Lewis and John P. White claim the election as president and a stormy session is in prospect. The miner deleates are much dissatisfied that the convention was held at Columbus, instead of Indianapolis. It is reported that a larger attendance is on hand than usual, and that hotel accommodations are insufficient.

Dr. J. W. Hunter and Harry C. Drum went to Harrisburg today to attend the inauguration of Gov. Tener.

Surveys Completed for Line From Connellsville to Connecting Point at Fayette City

RAPID PROGRESS MADE

Fast Trains East and West May be Run Via Fayette City---Yough Division ts be Used for Freight.

That the Western Maryland Railroad company means to penetrate the Monongahela valley and get a slice of the freight and passenger traffic originating in the mills and towns along the river, is now an assured fact according to statements made by a gentleman in a position to know what he is talking about.

Engineers have completed their surveys from Connellsville to the valley, passing through or close to Perryopolis, thence to Arnold City and along Downer's Run to Fayette City where it will connect with the Monongahela division of the P. and L. E. R R.

The Western Maryland is making rapid progress with their new line from the East along the Yough river, and traffic arrangements with the Lake Erie road have already been agreed upon. It is the intention, according to a statement made to run all fast passenger trains between the East and West via Fayette City, using the Yough division for freight, principally.

This means a great deal for the valley. It means a big freight station at the Fayette City junction. Filling in the low ground in the vicinity of the Fayette City water works has been going on for some time and large yards will be located there for the proper and prompt handling of freight.

It has been known for some time that the Lake Erie was arranging to build a large freight house near Newell

PRINCIPAL IS SURPRISED BY SCHOOL MA'AMS

Miss Nellie Lee, the popular principal of the Crest avenue school, was tendered a surprise in honor of her birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Nickeson on Meadow avenue last evening. The affair was quietly arranged by the Crest avenue teachers, who congregated at the Nickeson home and arrayed themselves in unique costumes, which was to be a part of the surprise. Then Miss Lee was called from her rooming house by phone and when she came, was greeted by a wild chorus. Stately school ma'ms of the daytime became the gayest of the gay, and although Miss Lee was completely discomfitted by the affair, she rallied quickly from her surprise and a delightful evening was spent. Refreshments were served to top off the rare enjoyment of the occasion.

Mrs. George L. West has returned from a visit of several days with her sister, Mrs Weller in Zanesville, Ohio.

Tener Now Governor

John Kinley Tener is now Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In attaining this exalted position Mr. Tener waded through a veritable swamp of malice, hatred and unprovoked assault. The best possible guarantee for his capacity is the fact that through the campaign he met his enemies at their own convenience. He defied the malignant libels, and above and beyond all he maintained his diginity and self possession.

The people of Pennsylvania will recall that during the Gubernatorial campaign Edwin S. Stuart was assailed just as Mr. Tener was decried. Mr. Stuart was elected and he has retired from office full of honor, enjoying to the full limit the confidence and esteem of the whole people. Governor Stuart redeemed evey pledge he made to the people. He kept the faith just as all other Republicans in this State have done and just as Governor Tener is certain to do.

John K. Tener will be Governor of Pennsylvania just as Governor Stuart has been. Although viciously assailed and criminally maligned it is Mr. Tener's prime interest and pleasure to see into it that the whole people get what was promised during the campaign. Mr. Tener will make a good Governor, and those who so maliciously maligned him will be forced to acknowledge their error just as did the traducers of Governor Stuart later during the past administration.

The Address

With no attempt at oratory or rhetorical flourish, Governor Tener's inaugural address is a clear and lucid statement of the polices he favors for the well-being and advancement of the people of the Commonwealth. There is no equivocating on the part of the Governor. He is straight out in his declarations in favor of those policies that have for some time been a public issue. In some of the new issues which have not yet been thoroughly discussed, or generally understood by the public, Governor Tener, while not expressing his approval, does not evade or ignore their presence, but recommends them to the serious consideration of all concerned.

Mild in statement as it is, the address is extremely radical in some of its recommendations which in the usual order of public utterance by an executive are either ignored or "straddled." The recommendation of a public utilities commission, consideration of the government by commission plan, compulsory arbitration, and an employers' liability bill should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical as to the Governor's sincerity of purpose. His practical recommendations for internal improvements and the advancement of the material interests of the State show that he has a comprehensive grasp of this most important department of his office.

There is no occasion to fear for the Executive. He will do his duty. The people, however, should remember that the executive is separate from the legislative, and that it is the representatives the people have elected who must, through the Legislature, enact the Governor's policies and recommendations into effect. The Governor can use his influence and express his approval, but the Legislature must do the rest

Dirty

The vindictive and malicious attack by the Washington Observer upon Arthur W. Day, proprietor of the Hotel Arthur, who is an applicant at the license court next month, deceives no one as to its motive. The very viciousness of the attack, which insults a woman, libels the dead, and reflects upon the county court, reveals the animus of one who, thwarted in his selfish scheme of political aggrandizement, and balked in his plans for political revenge, stoops to the lowest depths in giving vent to the venom of his spleen.

Those in Charleroi who have read the attack are righteously indignant over the viciousness, which is aimed at Governor Tener. So far as the facts of the case are concerned on which the attack is based, they were decided by the county court several years ago to the vindication of Mr. Day, against whom with all other license holders, general charges had been filed by a professional informer. The libelous insinuations and charges regarding the personal character of Mr. Day and his place of business are baseless fabrications, as every person in Charleroi knows. The attack was dispicable and dirty to say the least.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

'Squire Jenkins of the justice mill over the First National Bank, tells a story about two Heorew friends of his—Isaacs and Cohen—who live in Philadelphia. Isaacs, it seems, violated a city ordinance by encroaching with a display of merchandise too far out on the sidewalk, and the police got after him. Skipping out the back door he ran across the street into his friend Cohen's establishment exclaiming:

"Cohen! Cohen! the police are after me, Vere shall I hide myself?" He was directed to the third floor to a closet in which there were some old sacks, one of which he was to get into and lie down in the corner. This he did, and when the police, hot on his trail, arrived at Cohen's, the latter declared he had not seen Isaacs for a week, and that he must be out of the city.

"But we saw him run in here," insisted the officer. "Where is he?"

"Vell, if you think so, search the premises, gentlemen, search the premises."

The officers made a search, closely followed by Cohen. In the closet, which was dimly lighted, the officers noticed a bundle in a corner.

"What's this?" demanded one of the officers, giving the bundle a kick.

"Noddings, noddings, gentlemen, only some tin pans my vife stowed away."

"Tin pans, eh?" said the officer, giving the bundle a couple of hearty kicks. "It doesn't sound like it."

At this stage it was up to Isaacs to carry out his part of the game, so out of the sack came in muffled tones:

"Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle!"

Two bachelor brothers - farmers- in one of the interior townships of a nearby county kept house under the same roof, but each, like the inimitable Mr. Boffin and his wife in Charles Dickens, "Our Mutual Friend," maintained a separated establishment Each kept a separate stock of provisions and each did his own cooking.

One evening Tom the elder, returned from the county seat to which he had driven on a business trip, and found his brother Bill eating his supper. Fearful that Bill might have encroached upon his private stores during his absence, he asked:

"What you eatin', Bill?"

"Eatin' eggs spontaneously," was the sententious reply.

"Where did you git em, Bill?".

"Got 'em out my own nests simultaneously."

This was satisfactory, and no further conversation was necessary.

An interested reader of the "Picked up in Passing department hands this to the Mail:

"Tom's brother Bill is six feet tall and Bill has been growing two inches to Tom's one and Bill is three times as tall as Tom was when Bill was as tall as Tom is now. How tall was Tom?"

There is no prize offered for the solution.

"I wish there would be some change made in the school system" remarked a Charleroi man the other day. "The system we have now is actually in some cases much of a hindrance to real education. I have three children and two of them are in high school. Not that I have much admiration for the usual kind of high school, but I send them there more for the fact that they can be kept employed better than they can at home, and in the slim hope that they will really learn something.

"The grammar used by most high school students is nothing less than abominable. Such expressions as 'I seen,' 'I hain't,' and the like are common. Latin is pumped into them wholesale, but the principles of the three R's are allowed to be forgotten. Honestly, some of the persons who have received diplomas from the valley high schools, cannot much more than say the multijication table up to the 10's and the various and cumber some methods taught them in past years of solving problems are an unintelligible tangle or entirely gone from their minds.

"The system as applied in many instances reminds me of a boy who was looking for a job. Going to a store, the first one on his round, he stuck his head in the door, and yelled: 'You don't got nobody around here nowheres what you don't want nobody to do nothin' fer ye, does ye'.

"It couldn't be much worse"

TENER'S AIM IS TO SERVE PUBLIC

Governor Delivers His Inaugural Address at Harrisburg

LEGISLATION RECOMMENDED

Public Health, Schools and Highways Touched Upon in Address—Tener Would Abolish Present Railroad Commission and Create Public Service Commission With Broader Powers—Legislators Should Give Serious Attention to Galveston Idea of Municipal Government.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 17.—Governor Tener took the oath of office here today. In his inaugural address he urged the strict enforcement of laws already enacted and recommended the passage of new legislation. "To serve the people will ever be my aim and duty well done will be my highest reward," he said in conclusion. His address follows:

Believing that I have a correct sense of the obligation which is imposed by the oath just taken, I approach the duties of the office to which you have elected me, conscious of their importance and of my responsibility in their lawful execution.

I appreciate the magnitude of our state and of the many activities of our people, which have secured for us so high a place among the American commonwealths, and it should be the aim of all officials to contribute to their utmost the maintenance of this high position. There should ever be the desire to make the most of our advantages to the end that the people may receive the best results therefrom

We are living in a progressive age; progressive in everything that tends to the uplift of man and to a higher and better civilization, and in this forward march public officials must keep apace, not only to be vigilant to see that the laws are faithfully executed, but to give to the people the best that is in them; to see that these laws should bear equally upon all and that the ultimate result be the welfare and happiness of our people

At the time of my acceptance of the nomination, as well as on other occasions, I promised, if elected, not only a strict enforcement of present laws, but to do all in my power to secure additional legislation which would further tend to better the general conditions throughout the commonwealth

Realizes Much Is Expected.

Having in mind the high sense of duty which has actuated my predecessor and his successful administration of this office, I appreciate that much will be expected of me These expectations I will strive to realize, and to that end I will exact that all of the state officials shall do their full duty, and that to me and them, the dominating influences shall be an efficient administration of state affiairs

The most important subject, and one which should be our constant consideration, is the public health. Great progress has been made by our state in recent years in this service, and it is universally acknowledged that the results accomplished fully justify the appropriations so expended.

I will favor the giving to the department of health the necessary money to enable it to continue its good work, and to keep abreast of modern methods for the protection of life and health; believing that the funds of the commonwealth cannot be, within, of course, proper limitations more beneficially used.

Education of Utmost Importance.

Next to the public health is public education. This is of the utmost importance, not only for the benefit of the children themselves, but for the welfare of the state. Where the elective franchise is, as in Pennsylvania, within the reach of all, it is vital that those who have this great power, which may be wielded for good or ill, should be properly qualified for its intelligent use.

Our constitution requires the legislature to "provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of public schools, wherein all of the children of the commonwealth above the age of six years may be educated." While Pennsylvania has done much toward public education, we have not had what the constitution declares we should have—"a thorough and efficient system of public schools." To secure this it has been for years the aim of educators and those specially interested in the work. A commission was appointed to prepare a system, and they have drafted a code, which will be submitted to the present legislature. Among its principal features are:

Features of Proposed School Code.

First—The creation of a state board which will have the supervision of the character of school houses, kinds of books, the making of general rules and regulations.

Second—The division of the state into districts according to population.

Third—The election of school directors and smaller boards by a vote of the whole district.

Fourth—Making it in Philadelphia, as it has been elsewhere in the state, the school district independent of the municipality.

A carefully prepared system faithfully administered by officials and with the co-operation of the people should secure for the commonwealth great economic benefit.

I trust the proposed code will receive the earnest attention of the legislature, and my hope is that there will be at this session an enactment which will result in securing for us the best system for the administration of our schools.

Pennsylvania has been pre-eminent in many governmental activities, but in the consideration of highways the effort has not been commensurate with the need. Other states have recognized not only the desirability but the necessity of good roads, and have to the limit of their means endeavored to meet this need; in fact, though heavily in debt, they have added to their obligations for this purpose. Pennsylvania, practically out of debt, has done little to supply this want. The department with small appropriations has been able to make but little headway.

Time to Improve Roads.

With a total of 97,000 miles of public roads, but 700 miles have been improved by the state. The time has come when an active effort must be made. A general plan of statewide road improvement should be adopted and accomplished. To do this will require the expenditure of a large sum far beyond the ordinary revenues, and the necessary funds can be raised only by an addition to the state debt for that purpose. To effect this a constitutional amendment will be necessary, which could not be operative until after a ratifying election in 1913, but in the meantime a comprehensive scheme could be worked out, and all moneys available from current revenues can be used for construction as would from time to time be determined practicable.

Though pressing the necessity for road improvement, I would before approving the expenditure of large sums of money, insist upon the adoption of a practicable working plan, which would deal fairly with all sections according to their respective needs.

My present thought is, as a beginning, that the state should construct at least one road between adjoining county seats, and to these other roads could, from time to time, be added until the general improvement would be consummated Piecemeal and small disconnected construction, widely separated, should not be made except in case of pressing necessity.

In my opinion a reorganization of our highway department is necessary and recommend an organization more comprehensive in its administration, with power, with the approval of the board of public grounds and buildings, to consider and execute this general highway plan.

Would Abolish Railroad Commission.

The present railroad commission has done well, but circumscribed as to its limitations it cannot fulfill the present requirements in the treatment of the relations between the people and the public service corporations. There should be a commission vested with all possible power to have the general supervision and control of the corporations and individuals having to do with public utilities, and the present railroad commission abolished.

Properly conducted, this public service commission would create a better feeling between the people and the corporations; would keep these companies within their lawful bounds and compel them to render to the public the reasonable and satisfactory service for which their franchises were granted. It would prevent the building of unnecessary railroads and works, and the issuance of obligations not fully represented by actual value given. It would protect these companies against unfair attacks, while at the same time the rights of the people would be fully conserved. I recommend the enactment of legislation creating such a commission. It is desired by the people and should be welcomed by all fairly disposed corporations.

Employers' Liability.

Pennsylvania's prosperity depends to a large extent upon the success of the manufacturing and mining industries. All reasonable encouragement has been given to these interests and they have been successful and the state benefited thereby. Labor, an important factor in these results, has not been neglected, and legislation has secured for the workingman many benefits which have resulted in a marked improvement in the general conditions of industrial employes.

One of the latest laws is that imposing liability on the employers for the negligence of the "fellow-workmen," from which liability employers were formerly exempt; yet it is a regrettable fact that under the present system of liability the workmen must engage in long and costly litigation The waste of money by workmen and employers in prosecuting and defending suits of this character would go a long way, if paid immediately to the injured workman, to relieve him of his distress.

I believe that the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the greatest of all industrial states, should be the first to put into operation advanced legislation in respect to this subject, and as a means to that end advise the appointment of a commission of representative workmen and employers whose duty it shall be to investigate every phase of the question and recommend to the legislature a bill in accordance with the result of their investigations.

Attention has been called to the fact that through a defect in the present employers' liability law the dependents (if they live in foreign countries) of non-residents who suffer injury or death in Pennsylvania as a result of industrial accidents, are denied the right of recovering damages on the same basis as citizens of this state. This defect was not foreseen when the law was enacted, and the legislature enacting the law had no desire to discriminate in such cases; therefore I recommend legislation that will at once correct this condition.

Museum of Industrial Hygiene.

I also believe it would be well to establish in the state a museum of safety devices and industrial hygiene. Such a department placed in the hands of competent instructors would be able to furnish employers of labor with drawings of safety devices, which devices, if placed on dangerous machinery, would reduce considerably the number of accidents which occur annually in the mining, manufacturing and transportation industries.

As a general rule employes and employers should be left to themselves to settle their differences, but when a strike results which affects the public then there should be a method of having these differences and that strike properly adjusted and settled In this day of general education and enlightenment a strike which can disturb the peace and business interests of a community should be impossible. We have in our state today a strike of miners which has been on for several months and which has caused terrible suffering to the families of the miners, loss of business to the employers and the usual disorder and lawlessness which accompanies such disputes. Our state is frequently disturbed by such conditions (no more than other states and not as much as some) and a means should be provided to prevent it It is a reproach to any people that disputes should beget lawlessness, and if differences cannot be voluntarily, promptly and feasibly adjusted then the law should provide a remedy In such cases the people as a whole have rights paramount and they should not be compelled to suffer while the spleen of the combatants is being satisfied. I am in favor of a compulsory arbitration law, and if such cannot now be legally enacted I recommend a constitutional amendment to authorize it With such a law there will be fewer disputes and no strikes.

Insurance Department Handicapped.

The insurance department of this state is so inadequately equipped and so restricted as to the employment of help that it cannot supervise and examine or be responsible for the correct reporting and financial condition of its domestic companies; neither can it with its present force undertake to even verify the annual statements of these companies.

A very large revenue is collected from insurance companies, both domestic and foreign, from fees, taxes, licenses, etc., and in some cases more should be levied, but it is obvious that to maintain an insurance department compatible with the dignity and wealth of the state and the far-reaching importance of the insurance business, this department should be strengthened by furnishing it with necessary equipment so as to be able to handle the business required and to fully and faithfully safeguard the interests of the insured and their dependents.

More Revenue Needed.

The present receipts of the commonwealth but barely meet the necessary expenditures, and if state highways are to be built, further appropriations to be made to public schools and needed state institutions erected for the helpless with various afflictions, more revenue must be had. The last legislature appointed a committee to consider a revision of the revenue laws, and they have prepared a report which will be submitted at this session. They have recommended that taxes should be laid on certain subjects now exempt, notably capital stock of manufacturing corporations, anthracite coal, increased automobile registration fees to be used only in maintenance of improved roads, business of insurance companies and on some other subjects. While undoubtedly further revenue will be required if needed public improvements are to be made, all care and prudence should be given to expenditures.

Money not actually needed should not be taken from the people, and as much as possible of the revenues collected should be returned to the counties in relief of local taxation. The general extravagance which accompanies general prosperity as to individuals should have no place in the expenditure of public moneys, yet there should be no parsimony in the outlay of public funds to the injury of the commonwealth, and I shall endeavor to see to it that our people receive full value for the taxes exacted from them

Galveston Idea.

Since Galveston, Tex., adopted a commission form of government to secure its rehabilitation after almost total annihilation approximately a hundred cities of this country have followed its wake, and are today prospering under the most efficient and economical form of government yet devised for the administration of public affairs.

Briefly put, the controlling idea of the system is that a city being a corporation should be governed as a corporation, by a board of directors, the board should be small and properly compensated and directly responsible to the people, and thus an honest, efficient and economic business management can be had. There are many cities in the commonwealth which doubtless would hasten to avail themselves of this form of government if it were legally available. Serious consideration, therefore, should be given by the legislature to this important subject.

Waterways Development.

From time to time there have been advocated projects for the development of the waterways of Philadelphia and Pittsburg the claim being that these are necessary to maintain the importance of the port of Philadelphia in the east and the supremacy of the mining and manufacturing industries in the west. These objects are laudable and are deserving of every encouragement, but they would involve the spending of large sums of money and should not be attempted until the localities to be specially benefited shall furnish to the legislature detailed plans of the work proposed and the cost thereof and the legislature shall be satisfied of their practicability The requirements should be definitely determined in advance of outlay, so that the results expected will be known and will secure the accomplishment of the object desired I will favor state aid to the construction of a canal connecting the great lakes with the Ohio river if a practicable plan as to the cost of construction and operation can be devised which will provide for shippers' transportation at a less cost than by present methods.

Mines and Mining.

Pennsylvania stands alone in the substantial help given to charitable institutions not under state control. Large appropriations aggregating millions have been thus given and they have been expended for the alleviation of the suffering of those who otherwise would have been helpless. We are exemplars for other states in this benevolence and should so continue, but appropriations should be made upon the basis of service rendered; a substantial portion of the cost of free hospital days in connection with the free service should be so appropriated This rule would give more to some and less to others than they are now receiving and may incur somewhat larger appropriations, but it would result in an equitable division.

The state should not contribute to the erection of such institutions unless in very exceptional cases where absolutely needed and construction not otherwise possible, in which event the state should either own the buildings or have a valid lien for the appropriation.

Building of State Institutions.

There are now in course of erection four state institutions—one at Fairview for the criminal insane, one at Shamokin for injured persons, one at Spring City for feeble minded and epileptics and another, the Homeopathic Hospital for the Insane near Allentown. They are being built by commissions and have been, owing to insufficient appropriations, longer under construction than the exigencies of the state would justify. All such institutions should be erected by a state department, with the approval of the board of public grounds and buildings, and all existing building commissions, with the exception of the Homeopathic hospital, should be abolished and the work completed by such a department. I am informed that the Homeopathic hospital is no near completion that it can be finished before such a department could be organized, and I favor an appropriation sufficient to complete this institution without further delay, so that construction so long under way may be completed at the earliest possible day Good business principles demand such a policy, and the overcrowded condition of other institutions caring for the same class of patients evidences the necessity for prompt action

Department of Mines.

My experience has impressed me with the importance of having the department of mines so reorganized as to include within its supervision all subjects relating to mines and mining of all kinds, and matters kindred or incidental thereto. Thorough investigation should at proper intervals be made of all the mines and mining machinery and appliances to the end that full protection shall be secured to the employes against the negligence of the operators or of the employes themselves.

The state's policy as to the department of agriculture, conservation of forests, purity of food and water supply and as to all departments of the state government should be continued and strengthened as experience may prove to be beneficial. The interests of the farmer so vital to the welfare of the commonwealth are worthy of, and shall receive my best consideration. The construction of public roads, the larger appropriations to the public schools, will be helpful to lighten the local burdens, and any legislation tending to benefit the agricultural interests will receive my hearty support.

It would be inopportune for me on this occasion to discuss in detail the many questions which affect the people of this state, and I have but attempted to direct attention to a few subjects which have appeared to me as requiring present consideration and action. We have a great commonwealth—the Keystone, indeed, of the federal arch, peopled with the most substantial and distinguished citizenship in this most favored land, for whom the best that can be had in everything which conduces to their happiness is none too good to inspire their chief executive to his best efforts in their behalf. To serve such a people will ever be my aim, and duty well done will be my highest reward.

Mrs. F. P. Skonnard, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes, "I want to recommend VINOL to every mother who has a weak or sickly child. My little boy was sickly, pale, and had no appetite for two years. I tried different medicines and doctors without benefit, but thanks to VINOL, he is a well and healthy boy to-day."

C. Allen, of New Bedford, Mass., writes, "My two puny children gained rapidly in flesh and strength in a very short time after taking VINOL."

We positively know VINOL will build up little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust. Try one bottle, and if you are not satisfied, we will return your money.

"BILL" PHILLIPS MAY SCOUT FOR ST. LOUIS CLUB

Charleroi Baseballist is Made Good Offer by Americans

William Phillips, the veteran baseballist, who for two consecutive years managed the Wheeling team of the Central League, is not yet certain where he will go this year, but he is decided upon one thing, that he will be in baseball. Phillips and another prominent baseball man have been negotiating for a club in a minor league, and have made an offer. The result will be made known within a few days.

If the present club owners do not accept the offer, Phillips will in all probability go on the road as a scout for the St Louis team of the American League, owned by "Bob" Hedges. He has been made a tempting offer by Hedges to scout for him. The management of the Cleveland American league team is also after Phillips.

"Bill" two years ago did great things for Wheeling, and brought the club there about all there was to be had in the way of honors for the Central league, but last year the club owners held in on expenses and consequently he did not attain his previous success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Meisner, formerly of Charleroi who last summer moved to Kissimmee, Florida, for the benefit of the former's health, have had results beyond their widest expectations in the cultivaion of a fine garden tract. The Kissimmee Valley Gazette says of them:

"After arriving here Mr. Meisner learned that the best medicine to take and the quickest and surest road to complete recovery, was a liberal use of artesian water and a plentiful supply of sunshine, and at once began making a vegetable garden, although neither Mr. or Mrs. Meisner had ever before had the opportunity of coaxing nature along that line. Their success has been far and beyond their fondest dreams, for today they can look with pride upon a garden that attracts the attention of every passerby and is destined to be the means of more dollars falling into Mr. Meisner's pocket than ever did through his labors at blowing glass bottles. He is now hale and hearty."

Private Secretary, Walter H. Gaither of Allegheny.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled at a similar event overwhelmed the State capital today. Marching clubs from Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other large cities and towns were in evidence, in addition to the military and thousand of civilians who flocked to the city.

Promptly at 11:30 Governor-elect Tener was escorted to the Capitol by by the Governor's Troop. The inaugural ceremonies took place at noon in front of the capitol on a platform erected for the purpose. Bishop J. H Darlington of the Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg delivered the invocation, and the certificate of election was read by H. M. Keppart, chief clerk of the Senate. The oath was administered by D. Newlin Fell, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the proclamation was read by Lieutenant Governor Robert J. Murphy.

Governor Tener then read his inaugural address, which is given in full in this issue on the third page. After the address Governor Tener reviewed the parade, which was a brilliant pageant of militia, political marching clubs, school organizations and civic bodies. At 8 o'clock this evening Governor Tener will give a reception to the public in the House caucus room of the Capitol. This with the inaugural ball, formally closes the ceremonies.

MAID WITH TENERS TEN YEARS GETS JOB

When Governor J. K. Tener and Mrs. Tener went to Harrisburg, they did not take chances on picking up a good maid to rule over the destinies of the executive kitchen, but took along the one they had had with them for the past ten years. This is Mrs. Emma Sims, who left yesterday for the State capitol. Her part in the ruling of the Commonwealth will be as important in a way as that of the highest paid State official.

MAY BEGIN BUILDING WORK SOON

Money for Charleroi Structure to be Forthcoming

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

The secretary of the United States Treasury sent to Congress yesterday his statement of appropriations required for purchase of sites and construction of Federal buildings in the next fiscal year. The sum of $20,000 of the amount appropriated some time ago for the Charleroi building, is asked, to pay for lots purchased at the corner of Fallowfield avenue and Seventh street, and to begin construction of the building. This would indicate that real work on the building is to begin within a few months. For site and commencement at Monongahela, $18,000 is asked.

SUBPOENAS ARE AWARDED IN TWO DIVORCE CASES

A subpoena in divorce was granted yesterday by the court to M. J. Tylavsky against his wife Katherine, both of Charleroi. The husband charges that the wife has made his life unbearable and on January 7 he was forced to leave her. The couple were married in 1892.

In the suit of Arthur Pochet vs. Martha Jane Pochet a subpoena in divorce was awarded. The libellant resides at Charleroi. Cruel and barbarous treatment is alleged. This treatment was due to insanity, according to statement.

MANY GO TO HARRISBURG TO ATTEND INAUGURATION

Western Pennsylvania Well Represented at State Capitol by Persons Anxious to See Gov. Tener Take Oath

STUARTS TURN OVER EXECUTIVE MANSION

Governor and Mrs. J. K. Tener have a number of their relatives and close friends as their guests at the executive mansion at Harrisburg during the inauguration who are well known and closely associated with Charleroi. The party includes Mr. and Mrs. George E. Tener, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johns, Miss Roberta Johns and Mrs. James Smith, Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Columbus, O., formerly of Charleroi; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Day, Charleroi, and Mr. and Mrs Henry F. Walton and Mrs. E. Walton Hill, Philadelphia. Mr. Day of Charleroi is a brother and Mrs. Miller of Columbus, O., is a sister of Mrs. Tener.

Another party at the Commonwealth Hotel includes Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Tener Cleveland, O., and Mr. and Mrs Edward H. Tener and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Tener, Pittsburg. The two brothers of the Governor, who could not be present at the inauguration are Walter J., of Pittsburg, and Robert W. Tener of Virginia.

Governor-elect and Mrs. Tener arrived in Harrisburg yesterday afternoon at 12:52 o clock from Pittsburg. They were met at the statin by A. B. Miller, private secretary to Gov. Edwin S. Stuart, and Senator John E. Fox, chairman of the inaugural committee, and were driven to the executive mansion in Gov. Stuart's carriage. At the mansion they were welcomed by Miss Cora Stuart and the Governor After luncheon Miss Stuart went to her home in Philadelphia and Gov. Stuart retired from the mansion, turning it over to his successor.

The town is filled with neighbors of the Teners in Charleroi and along the Monongahela valley. Last evening most of them called at the executive mansion to tell the big Governor how proud they are of him.

At the public reception in the State Capitol tonight those who will be on the receiving line will be Governor and Mrs. Tener, Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Reynolds, Secretary of Internal Affairs Henry Houck, State Treasurer and Mrs. C. F. Wright, President Pro Tem. of the Senate and Mrs William E. Crow; Speaker and Mrs John E. Cox, Secretary and Mrs. Walter H. Gaither, Chairman of Legislative Inaugural Committee and Mrs. John E Fox.

STORMY SESSION IS IN PRESPECT

Representative William Feeney of Charleroi was not present at the opening of the Legislative session at Harrisburg, being detained as a teller in counting the ballots cast in the national election of the United Mine Workers. Mr. Feeney is still at Columbus, Ohio, where the national convention assembled Tuesday. It is not expected that the official count of the ballots will be completed before the end of the week so that the result is not likely to be announced before Monday.

Both President Lewis and John P. White claim the election as president and a stormy session is in prospect. The miner deleates are much dissatisfied that the convention was held at Columbus, instead of Indianapolis. It is reported that a larger attendance is on hand than usual, and that hotel accommodations are insufficient.

Dr. J. W. Hunter and Harry C. Drum went to Harrisburg today to attend the inauguration of Gov. Tener.

Surveys Completed for Line From Connellsville to Connecting Point at Fayette City

RAPID PROGRESS MADE

Fast Trains East and West May be Run Via Fayette City---Yough Division ts be Used for Freight.

That the Western Maryland Railroad company means to penetrate the Monongahela valley and get a slice of the freight and passenger traffic originating in the mills and towns along the river, is now an assured fact according to statements made by a gentleman in a position to know what he is talking about.

Engineers have completed their surveys from Connellsville to the valley, passing through or close to Perryopolis, thence to Arnold City and along Downer's Run to Fayette City where it will connect with the Monongahela division of the P. and L. E. R. R.

The Western Maryland is making rapid progress with their new line from the East along the Yough river, and traffic arrangements with the Lake Erie road have already been agreed upon. It is the intention, according to a statement made to run all fast passenger trains between the East and West via Fayette City, using the Yough division for freight, principally.

This means a great deal for the valley. It means a big freight station at the Fayette City junction. Filling in the low ground in the vicinity of the Fayette City water works has been going on for some time and large yards will be located there for the proper and prompt handling of freight.

It has been known for some time that the Lake Erie was arranging to build a large freight house near Newell.

PRINCIPAL IS SURPRISED BY SCHOOL MA'AMS

Miss Nellie Lee, the popular principal of the Crest avenue school, was tendered a surprise in honor of her birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Nickeson on Meadow avenue last evening. The affair was quietly arranged by the Crest avenue teachers, who congregated at the Nickeson home and arrayed themselves in unique costumes, which was to be a part of the surprise. Then Miss Lee was called from her rooming house by phone and when she came, was greeted by a wild chorus. Stately school ma'ms of the daytime became the gayest of the gay, and although Miss Lee was completely discomfitted by the affair, she rallied quickly from her surprise and a delightful evening was spent. Refreshments were served to top off the rare enjoyment of the occasion.

Mrs. George L. West has returned from a visit of several days with her sister, Mrs Weller in Zanesville, Ohio.

Tener Now Governor

John Kinley Tener is now Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In attaining this exalted position Mr. Tener waded through a veritable swamp of malice, hatred and unprovoked assault. The best possible guarantee for his capacity is the fact that through the campaign he met his enemies at their own convenience. He defied the malignant libels, and above and beyond all he maintained his diginity and self possession.

The people of Pennsylvania will recall that during the Gubernatorial campaign Edwin S. Stuart was assailed just as Mr. Tener was decried. Mr. Stuart was elected and he has retired from office full of honor, enjoying to the full limit the confidence and esteem of the whole people. Governor Stuart redeemed evey pledge he made to the people. He kept the faith just as all other Republicans in this State have done and just as Governor Tener is certain to do.

John K. Tener will be Governor of Pennsylvania just as Governor Stuart has been. Although viciously assailed and criminally maligned it is Mr. Tener's prime interest and pleasure to see into it that the whole people get what was promised during the campaign. Mr. Tener will make a good Governor, and those who so maliciously maligned him will be forced to acknowledge their error just as did the traducers of Governor Stuart later during the past administration.

The Address

With no attempt at oratory or rhetorical flourish, Governor Tener's inaugural address is a clear and lucid statement of the polices he favors for the well-being and advancement of the people of the Commonwealth. There is no equivocating on the part of the Governor. He is straight out in his declarations in favor of those policies that have for some time been a public issue. In some of the new issues which have not yet been thoroughly discussed, or generally understood by the public, Governor Tener, while not expressing his approval, does not evade or ignore their presence, but recommends them to the serious consideration of all concerned.

Mild in statement as it is, the address is extremely radical in some of its recommendations which in the usual order of public utterance by an executive are either ignored or "straddled." The recommendation of a public utilities commission, consideration of the government by commission plan, compulsory arbitration, and an employers' liability bill should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical as to the Governor's sincerity of purpose. His practical recommendations for internal improvements and the advancement of the material interests of the State show that he has a comprehensive grasp of this most important department of his office.

There is no occasion to fear for the Executive. He will do his duty. The people, however, should remember that the executive is separate from the legislative, and that it is the representatives the people have elected who must, through the Legislature, enact the Governor's policies and recommendations into effect. The Governor can use his influence and express his approval, but the Legislature must do the rest

The vindictive and malicious attack by the Washington Observer upon Arthur W. Day, proprietor of the Hotel Arthur, who is an applicant at the license court next month, deceives no one as to its motive. The very viciousness of the attack, which insults a woman, libels the dead, and reflects upon the county court, reveals the animus of one who, thwarted in his selfish scheme of political aggrandizement, and balked in his plans for political revenge, stoops to the lowest depths in giving vent to the venom of his spleen.

Those in Charleroi who have read the attack are righteously indignant over the viciousness, which is aimed at Governor Tener. So far as the facts of the case are concerned on which the attack is based, they were decided by the county court several years ago to the vindication of Mr. Day, against whom with all other license holders, general charges had been filed by a professional informer. The libelous insinuations and charges regarding the personal character of Mr. Day and his place of business are baseless fabrications, as every person in Charleroi knows. The attack was dispicable and dirty to say the least.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

'Squire Jenkins of the justice mill over the First National Bank, tells a story about two Hebrew friends of his—Isaacs and Cohen—who live in Philadelphia. Isaacs, it seems, violated a city ordinance by encroaching with a display of merchandise too far out on the sidewalk, and the police got after him. Skipping out the back door he ran across the street into his friend Cohen's establishment exclaiming:

"Cohen! Cohen! the police are after me, Vere shall I hide myself?" He was directed to the third floor to a closet in which there were some old sacks, one of which he was to get into and lie down in the corner. This he did, and when the police, hot on his trail, arrived at Cohen's, the latter declared he had not seen Isaacs for a week, and that he must be out of the city.

"But we saw him run in here," insisted the officer. "Where is he?"

"Vell, if you think so, search the premises, gentlemen, search the premises."

The officers made a search, closely followed by Cohen. In the closet, which was dimly lighted, the officers noticed a bundle in a corner.

"What's this?" demanded one of the officers, giving the bundle a kick.

"Noddings, noddings, gentlemen, only some tin pans my vife stowed away."

"Tin pans, eh?" said the officer, giving the bundle a couple of hearty kicks. "It doesn't sound like it."

At this stage it was up to Isaacs to carry out his part of the game, so out of the sack came in muffled tones:

"Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle!"

Two bachelor brothers - farmers - in one of the interior townships of a nearby county kept house under the same roof, but each, like the inimitable Mr. Boffin and his wife in Charles Dickens, "Our Mutual Friend," maintained a separated establishment Each kept a separate stock of provisions and each did his own cooking.

One evening Tom the elder, returned from the county seat to which he had driven on a business trip, and found his brother Bill eating his supper. Fearful that Bill might have encroached upon his private stores during his absence, he asked:

"What you eatin', Bill?"

"Eatin' eggs spontaneously," was the sententious reply.

"Where did you git em, Bill?"

"Got 'em out my own nests simultaneously."

This was satisfactory, and no further conversation was necessary.

An interested reader of the "Picked up in Passing department hands this to the Mail:

"Tom's brother Bill is six feet tall and Bill has been growing two inches to Tom's one and Bill is three times as tall as Tom was when Bill was as tall as Tom is now. How tall was Tom?"

There is no prize offered for the solution.

"I wish there would be some change made in the school system" remarked a Charleroi man the other day. "The system we have now is actually in some cases much of a hindrance to real education. I have three children and two of them are in high school. Not that I have much admiration for the usual kind of high school, but I send them there more for the fact that they can be kept employed better than they can at home, and in the slim hope that they will really learn something.

"The grammar used by most high school students is nothing less than abominable. Such expressions as 'I seen,' 'I hain't,' and the like are common. Latin is pumped into them wholesale, but the principles of the three R's are allowed to be forgotten. Honestly, some of the persons who have received diplomas from the valley high schools, cannot much more than say the multijication table up to the 10's and the various and cumber some methods taught them in past years of solving problems are an unintelligible tangle or entirely gone from their minds.

"The system as applied in many instances reminds me of a boy who was looking for a job. Going to a store, the first one on his round, he stuck his head in the door, and yelled: 'You don't got nobody around here nowheres what you don't want nobody to do nothin' fer ye, does ye'.

"It couldn't be much worse"

TENER'S AIM IS TO SERVE PUBLIC

Governor Delivers His Inaugural Address at Harrisburg

LEGISLATION RECOMMENDED

Public Health, Schools and Highways Touched Upon in Address—Tener Would Abolish Present Railroad Commission and Create Public Service Commission With Broader Powers—Legislators Should Give Serious Attention to Galveston Idea of Municipal Government.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan 17.—Governor Tener took the oath of office here today. In his inaugural address he urged the strict enforcement of laws already enacted and recommended the passage of new legislation "To serve the people will ever be my aim and duty well done will be my highest reward," he said in conclusion. His address follows:

Believing that I have a correct sense of the obligation which is imposed by the oath just taken, I approach the duties of the office to which you have elected me, conscious of their importance and of my responsibility in their lawful execution

I appreciate the magnitude of our state and of the manufactures of our people, which have secured for us so high a place among the American commonwealths, and it should be the aim of all officials to contribute to their utmost the maintenance of this high position. There should ever be the desire to make the most of our advantages to the end that the people may receive the best results therefrom.

We are living in a progressive age; progressive in everything that tends to the uplift of man and to a higher and better civilization, and in this forward march public officials must keep apace, not only to be vigilant to see that the laws are faithfully executed, but to give to the people the best that is in them; to see that these laws should bear equally upon all and that the ultimate result be the welfare and happiness of our people

At the time of my acceptance of the nommation, as well as on other occasions I promised if elected not only a strict enforcement of present laws but to do all in my power to secure additional legislation which would further tend to better the general conditions throughout the commonwealth

Realizes Much Is Expected.

Having in mind the high sense of duty which has actuated my predecessor and his successful administration of this office I appreciate that much will be expected of me These expectations I will strive to realize, and to that end I will exact that all of the state officials shall do their full duty, and that to me and them the dominating influences shall be an efficient administration of state affairs

The most important subject, and one which should be our constant consideration is the public health Great progress has been made by our state in recent years in this service, and it is universally acknowledged that the results accomplished fully justify the appropriations so expended

I will favor the giving to the department of health the necessary money to enable it to continue its good work, and to keep abreast of modern methods for the protection of life and health; believing that the funds of the commonwealth cannot be, within, of course, proper limitations more beneficially used.

Education of Utmost Importance.

Next to the public health is public education. This is of the utmost importance, not only for the benefit of the children themselves, but for the welfare of the state Where the elective franchise is, as in Pennsylvania, within the reach of all, it is vital that those who have this great power, which may be wielded for good or ill, should be properly qualified for its intelligent use.

Our constitution requires the legislature to "provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of public schools wherein all of the children of the commonwealth above the age of six years may be educated" While Pennsylvania has done much toward public education, we have not had what the constitution declares we should have—"a thorough and efficient system of public schools" To secure this it has been for years the aim of educators and those specially interested in the work. A commission was appointed to prepare a system, and they have drafted a code, which will be submitted to the present legislature. Among its principal features are:

Features of Proposed School Code.

First—The creation of a state board which will have the supervision of the character of school houses, kinds of books, the making of general rules and regulations.

Second—The division of the state into districts according to population.

Third—The election of school directors and smaller boards by a vote of the whole district.

Fourth—Making it in Philadelphia, as it has been elsewhere in the state, the school district independent of the municipality.

A carefully prepared system faithfully administered by officials and with the co-operation of the people should secure for the commonwealth great economic benefit.

I trust the proposed code will receive the earnest attention of the legislature, and my hope is that there will be at this session an enactment which will result in securing for us the best system for the administration of our schools.

Pennsylvania has been pre-eminent in many governmental activities, but in the consideration of highways the effort has not been commensurate with the need Other states have recognized not only the desirability but the necessity of good roads, and have to the limit of their means endeavored to meet this need; in fact though heavily in debt, they have added to their obligations for this purpose Pennsylvania practically out of debt, has done little to supply this want. The department with small appropriations has been able to make but little headway.

Time to Improve Roads.

With a total of 97,000 miles of public roads, but 700 miles have been improved by the state. The time has come when an active effort must be made. A general plan of statewide road improvement should be adopted and accomplished To do this will require the expenditure of a large sum far beyond the ordinary revenues and the necessary funds can be raised only by an addition to the state debt for that purpose To effect this a constitutional amendment will be necessary, which could not be operative until after a ratifying election in 1913, but in the meantime a comprehensive scheme could be worked out, and all moneys available from current revenues can be used for construction as would from time to time be determined practicable

Though pressing the necessity for road improvement I would before approving the expenditure of large sums of money, insist upon the adoption of a practicable working plan, which would deal fairly with all sections according to their respective needs.

My present thought is, as a beginning, that the state should construct at least one road between adjoining county seats and to these other roads could, from time to time be added until the general improvement would be consummated Piecemeal and small disconnected construction, widely separated, should not be made except in case of pressing necessity

In my opinion a reorganization of our highway department is necessary and recommend an organization more comprehensive in its administration with power, with the approval of the board of public grounds and buildings, to consider and execute this general highway plan

Would Abolish Railroad Commission.

The present railroad commission has done well, but circumscribed as to its limitations it cannot fulfill the present requirements in the treatment of the relations between the people and the public service corporations. There should be a commission vested with all possible power to have the general supervision and control of the corporations and individuals having to do with public utilities, and the present railroad commission abolished.

Properly conducted, this public service commission would create a better feeling between the people and the corporations; would keep these companies within their lawful bounds and compel them to render to the public the reasonable and satisfactory service for which their franchises were granted It would prevent the building of unnecessary railroads and works, and the issuance of obligations not fully represented by actual value given it would protect these companies against unfair attacks, while at the same time the rights of the people would be fully conserved. I recommend the enactment of legislation creating such a commission It is desired by the people and should be welcomed by all fairly disposed corporations

Employers' Liability.

Pennsylvania's prosperity depends to a large extent upon the success of the manufacturing and mining industries. All reasonable encouragement has been given to these interests and they have been successful and the state benefited thereby. Labor, an important factor in these results, has not been neglected, and legislation has secured for the workingman many benefits which have resulted in a marked improvement in the general conditions of industrial employes

One of the latest laws is that imposing liability on the employers for the negligence of the "fellow-workmen," from which liability employers were formerly exempt; yet it is a regrettable fact that under the present system of liability the workmen must engage in long and costly litigation The waste of money by workmen and employers in prosecuting and defending suits of this character would go a long way, if paid immediately to the injured workman to relieve him of his distress.

I believe that the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the greatest of all industrial states, should be the first to put into operation advanced legislation in respect to this subject, and as a means to that end advise the appointment of a commission of representative workmen and employers whose duty it shall be to investigate every phase of the question and recommend to the legislature a bill in accordance with the result of their investigations.

Attention has been called to the fact that through a defect in the present employers' liability law the dependents (if they live in foreign countries) of non-residents who suffer injury or death in Pennsylvania as a result of industrial accidents, are denied the right of recovering damages on the same basis as citizens of this state. This defect was not foreseen when the law was enacted, and the legislature enacting the law had no desire to discriminate in such cases; therefore I recommend legislation that will at once correct this condition

Museum of Industrial Hygiene.

I also believe it would be well to establish in the state a museum of safety devices and industrial hygiene. Such a department placed in the hands of competent instructors would be able to furnish employers of labor with drawings of safety devices, which devices, if placed on dangerous machinery, would reduce considerably the number of accidents which occur annually in the mining, manufacturing and transportation industries

As a general rule employes and employers should be left to themselves to settle their differences, but when a strike results which affects the public then there should be a method of having these differences and that strike properly adjusted and settled In this day of general education and enlightenment a strike which can disturb the peace and business interests of a community should be impossible We have in our state today a strike of miners which has been on for several months and which has caused terrible suffering to the families of the miners, loss of business to the employers and the usual disorder and lawlessness which accompanies such disputes. Our state is frequently disturbed by such conditions (no more than other states and not as much as some) and a means should be provided to prevent it It is a reproach to any people that disputes should beget lawlessness, and if differences cannot be voluntarily, promptly and feasibly adjusted then the law should provide a remedy In such cases the people as a whole have rights paramount and they should not be compelled to suffer while the spleen of the combatants is being satisfied I am in favor of a compulsory arbitration law and if such cannot now be legally enacted I recommend a constitutional amendment to authorize it With such a law there will be fewer disputes and no strikes.

Insurance Department Handicapped.

The insurance department of this state is so inadequately equipped and so restricted as to the employment of help that it cannot supervise and examine or be responsible for the correct reporting and financial condition of its domestic companies; neither can it with its present force undertake to even verify the annual statements of these companies

A very large revenue is collected from insurance companies, both domestic and foreign, from fees taxes licenses, etc, and in some cases more should be levied, but it is obvious that to maintain an insurance department compatible with the dignity and wealth of the state and the far-reaching importance of the insurance business, this department should be strengthened by furnishing it with necessary equipment so as to be able to handle the business required and to fully and faithfully safeguard the interests of the insured and their dependents

More Revenue Needed.

The present receipts of the commonwealth but barely meet the necessary expenditures, and if state highways are to be built, further appropriations to be made to public schools and needed state institutions erected for the helpless with various afflictions, more revenue must be had. The last legislature appointed a committee to consider a revision of the revenue laws, and they have prepared a report which will be submitted at this session. They have recommended that taxes should be laid on certain subjects now exempt, notably capital stock of manufacturing corporations, anthracite coal, increased automobile registration fees to be used only in maintenance of improved roads, business of insurance companies and on some other subjects While undoubtedly further revenue will be required if needed public improvements are to be made, all care and prudence should be given to expenditures.

Money not actually needed should not be taken from the people, and as much as possible of the revenues collected should be returned to the counties in relief of local taxation The general extravagance which accompanies general prosperity as to individuals should have no place in the expenditure of public moneys, yet there should be no parsimony in the outlay of public funds to the injury of the commonwealth, and I shall endeavor to see to it that our people receive full value for the taxes exacted from them

Galveston Idea.

Since Galveston, Tex., adopted a commission form of government to secure its rehabilitation after almost total annihilation approximately a hundred cities of this country have followed its wake, and are today prospering under the most efficient and economical form of government yet devised for the administration of public affairs.

Briefly put, the controlling idea of the system is that a city being a corporation should be governed as a corporation, by a board of directors, the board should be small and properly compensated and directly responsible to the people, and thus an honest, efficient and economic business management can be had. There are many cities in the commonwealth which doubtless would hasten to avail themselves of this form of government if it were legally available. Serious consideration, therefore, should be given by the legislature to this important subject.

Waterways Development.

From time to time there have been advocated projects for the development of the waterways of Philadelphia and Pittsburg the claim being that these are necessary to maintain the importance of the port of Philadelphia in the east and the supremacy of the mining and manufacturing industries in the west. These objects are laudable and are deserving of every encouragement, but they would involve the spending of large sums of money and should not be attempted until the localities to be specially benefited shall furnish to the legislature detailed plans of the work proposed and the cost thereof and the legislature shall be satisfied of their practicability The requirements should be definitely determined in advance of outlay, so that the results expected will be known and will secure the accomplishment of the object desired I will favor state aid to the construction of a canal connecting the great lakes with the Ohio river if a practicable plan as to the cost of construction and operation can be devised which will provide for shippers' transportation at a less cost than by present methods.

Mines and Mining.

Pennsylvania stands alone in the substantial help given to charitable institutions not under state control Large appropriations aggregating millions have been thus given and they have been expended for the alleviation of the suffering of those who otherwise would have been helpless. We are exemplars for other states in this benevolence and should so continue, but appropriations should be made upon the basis of service rendered; a substantial portion of the cost of free hospital days in connection with the free service should be so appropriated This rule would give more to some and less to others than they are now receiving and may incur somewhat larger appropriations but it would result in an equitable division

The state should not contribute to the erection of such institutions unless in very excentional cases where absolutely needed and construction not otherwise possible, in which event the state should either own the buildings or have a valid lien for the appropriation

Building of State Institutions.

There are now in course of erection four state institutions—one at Fairview for the criminal insane, one at Shamokin for injured persons, one at Spring City for feeble minded and epileptics and another, the Homeopathic Hospital for the Insane near Allentown They are being built by commissions and have been, owing to insufficient appropriations, longer under construction than the exigencies of the state would justify All such institutions should be erected by a state department, with the approval of the board of public grounds and buildings, and all existing building commissions, with the exception of the Homeopathic hospital, should be abolished and the work completed by such a department I am informed that the Homeopathic hospital is no near completion that it can be finished before such a department could be organized, and I favor an appropriation sufficient to complete this institution without further delay so that construction so long under way may be completed at the earliest possible day Good business principles demand such a policy and the overcrowded condition of other institutions caring for the same class of patients evidences the necessity for prompt action

Department of Mines.

My experience has impressed me with the importance of having the department of mines so reorganized as to include within its supervision all subjects relating to mines and mining of all kinds, and matters kindred or incidental thereto. Thorough investigation should at proper intervals be made of all the mines and mining machinery and appliances to the end that full protection shall be secured to the employes against the negligence of the operators or of the employes themselves.

The state's policy as to the department of agriculture, conservation of forests, purity of food and water supply and as to all departments of the state government should be continued and strengthened as experience may prove to be beneficial. The interests of the farmer so vital to the welfare of the commonwealth are worthy of and shall receive my best consideration. The construction of public roads, the larger appropriations to the public schools, will be helpful to lighten the local burdens, and any legislation tending to benefit the agricultural interests will receive my hearty support.

It would be inopportune for me on this occasion to discuss in detail the many questions which affect the people of this state, and I have but attempted to direct attention to a few subjects which have appeared to me as requiring present consideration and action. We have a great commonwealth—the Keystone, indeed, of the federal arch, peopled with the most substantial and distinguished citizenship in this most favored land, for whom the best that can be had in everything which conduces to their happiness is none too good to inspire their chief executive to his best efforts in their behalf. To serve such a people will ever be my aim, and duty well done will be my highest reward.

Sickly Children

Letters from Mothers

"I wish I could induce every mother, who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious Cod Liver and Iron Tonic VINOL. It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed."—Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, Ohio.

Mrs. F. P. Skonnard, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes, "I want to recommend VINOL to every mother who has a weak or sickly child. My little boy was sickly, pale, and had no appetite for two years. I tried different medicines and doctors without benefit, but thanks to VINOL, he is a well and healthy boy to-day."

C. Allen, of New Bedford, Mass., writes, "My two puny children gained rapidly in flesh and strength in a very short time after taking VINOL."

We positively know VINOL will build up little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust. Try one bottle, and if you are not satisfied, we will return your money.

"BILL" PHILLIPS MAY SCOUT FOR ST. LOUIS CLUB

Charleroi Baseballist is Made Good Offer by Americans

William Phillips, the veteran baseballist, who for two consecutive years managed the Wheeling team of the Central League, is not yet certain where he will go this year, but he is decided upon one thing, that he will be in baseball. Phillips and another prominent baseball man have been negotiating for a club in a minor league, and have made an offer. The result will be made known within a few days.

If the present club owners do not accept the offer, Phillips will in all probability go on the road as a scout for the St. Louis team of the American League, owned by "Bob" Hedges. He has been made a tempting offer by Hedges to scout for him. The management of the Cleveland American league team is also after Phillips.

"Bill" two years ago did great things for Wheeling, and brought the club there about all there was to be had in the way of honors for the Central league, but last year the club owners held in on expenses and consequently he did not attain his previous success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Meisner, formerly of Charleroi who last summer moved to Kissimmee, Florida, for the benefit of the former's health, have had results beyond their widest expectations in the cultivaion of a fine garden tract. The Kissimmee Valley Gazette says of them:

"After arriving here Mr. Meisner learned that the best medicine to take and the quickest and surest road to complete recovery, was a liberal use of artesian water and a plentiful supply of sunshine, and at once began making a vegetable garden, although neither Mr. or Mrs. Meisner had ever before had the opportunity of coaxing nature along that line. Their success has been far and beyond their fondest dreams, for today they can look with pride upon a garden that attracts the attention of every passerby and is destined to be the means of more dollars falling into Mr. Meisner's pocket than ever did through his labors at blowing glass bottles. He is now hale and hearty."
